Here for You, Now and Always

“Keep on inspiring each other as much as you’ve inspired me those last six months. In 2021 we will keep investing in technology, in people to support you the best we can.”

“My dream? I never want to be set in my ways, I need to stay curious. I want to allow myself to grow let life take different shape.”

Born in Montreal and raised in Chennai, India, Shraddha gained tremendous independence and experience while living and working in New York City. As a classically trained musician and award-winning designer, she thrives in the development of complex narratives and never shies away from revisiting her work to reach the best solution. An avid traveller and foodie, she finds solace walking with no destination capturing life moments as she meanders through the streets.

Her dream – to always remain open to infinite possibilities. “I never want to be set in my ways, I need to stay curious. I want to allow myself to grow let life take different shape.”

Beyond an exceptional designer, Shraddha is a dedicated team member who focuses on innovative concepts and maintaining meaningful relationships with her peers. Her sensibilities and cultural curiosity have enabled her to seamlessly develop authentic narratives embodying Studio Munge’s highest design standards while always meeting our clients’ operational needs.

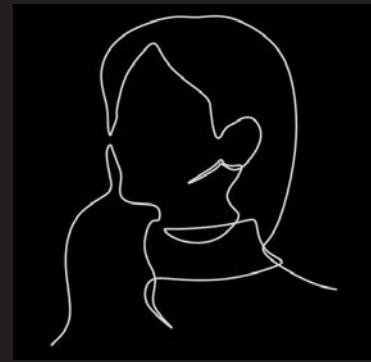

2020

“This has been a year like no other in the history of the company, a year like no other in the history of humanity. We lost projects, we lost clients, but thanks to our collective sacrifices and our hard work, our studio is alive and ready to face what remains uncertain times. This pandemic is not over, but we are optimistic. 2021 will be a new chapter.”

PASSIONATE ALESSANDRO MUNGE IS ON A CREATIVE HIGH.

He's one of the world's most successful multifaceted designers. He's got a portfolio spanning architecture, interior design, and product design. He's also a successful entrepreneur, investor, and philanthropist. And during these remarkable times, when lifestyles are in flux, he's not only a creative force but also a source of inspiration and ongoing ideas, challenging conventional wisdom by rejecting elements of anything and everything else that's been done before.

It's not just the opening night of the Met Gala that he's going to be talking about. It's the fact that he's been able to make it through the pandemic as a business owner who was determined to make his living work. It's the fact that he's been able to make it through the pandemic as a business owner who was determined to make his living work. It's the fact that he's been able to make it through the pandemic as a business owner who was determined to make his living work.

Munge's early days in the design industry were spent in Canada. He moved to Toronto in 1997 when he was only 22 years old. He started his own design firm, and he's since become a leading figure in the industry. He's worked on some of the most iconic projects in the world, and he's always looking for the next challenge. He's always looking for the next challenge.

"I NEVER REALLY HAD ANYTHING. SO, THE WORLD IS NOTHING BUT OPEN AND POSITIVE TO ME."

“A toast to 2021. While we don’t know exactly what it holds, one thing is for sure: it will bring the most projects completed ever in the history of our studio.

Three hotels, eight restaurants & bars, and a dozen residential projects. So cheers to accomplishing the extraordinary together!”

“While we’ve celebrated our incredibly talented design teams, we recognize we can only reach the level we are at with outstanding operational support.

So let’s raise a glass to those who invoice, those who fix, those who network. To those who day and night think about how to make us stronger as a business and help us create magic.”
